

Message from Head of Research Department

Welcome to the ICFAI University, this institution serves as a focal point for research and provides all the resources and inputs necessary for conducting and facilitating research. The nature of research activities in the departments of science & technology, management and legal studies define the intellectual climate of the institution. This entire research enterprise has been created so as to establish a culture in which scholars are taught and given the right exposure. This university is proud of its recognized research programs run under the supervision of our talented and experienced faculties. This institution strives to attain excellence in the areas of science, technology, management and law. Our strengths and successes in research extend beyond these areas, and I invite you to explore our areas of excellence. ICFAI University as a whole, prides itself on generating new knowledge that is translated rapidly into solutions for the problems of industry, business and society. We are particularly excited by our plans to expand our research and innovation efforts in the areas of information technology, mathematics, modern physics, management studies and law so as to identify new areas for further development.

To facilitate our research vision, we provide research support in terms of academic databases and invite researchers from all over the nation to collaborate and showcase their work. For our scholars, we provide the right environment needed for conducting quality research and our university has demonstrated leadership and excellence in all of its areas and strives to continue the same in the future to come as well. We continue to break new grounds in various fields and our faculty members' excellence in research is demonstrated by their scholarly contributions. Our researchers individually and collaboratively deeply investigate a vast array of disciplinary and interdisciplinary research subjects at the cutting edge of science and technology, Management and Law. The research programs are devoted to developing knowledge, methods, and approaches to address the contemporary issues facing the society and industry. Our university running under the flagship institution of ICFAI University, Hyderabad has numerous partners within the industry which help us in facilitating research in the best manner possible. We are constantly looking forward to grow and diversify our programs keeping in view the demand of professionals within the industry.

Dr. Ashish Pandey
Head of Research Department